• Do you think advertisements aimed at children should be endorsed by famous people?

– Well, this is something I've never thought about before -

– - because it is so common to see ads endorsed by celebrities and many of them target children.

– I've seen quite a few commercials of English training school which have endorsement from well-known actors and honestly, I don't suppose those actors know whether the schools teach well or not; they only do it for the money.

• Is it easy to become beautiful?

- Haha, that's an interesting question. Frankly speaking, I don't know if it's easy or not cuz as you can see, I was born with really good looks hahaha. I'm blessed, so I've never made an effort to be beautiful. Sorry, I'm just kidding.
- Well, it's true that beauty is something that most people want; both men and women nowadays take care of their skin, they work out at the gym, and some, particularly women, go through surgery to become prettier.
- So to answer your question, I think it's a lot easier today than ever before with the technological improvement in the field of beauty.

• How do people learn to sing nowadays?

- Um, I like this question. People don't really make a deliberate effort to learn singing; they just listen to songs, over and over again, and sing along.
- But one way people practice singing is by going to a karaoke bar. They belt out songs there and as they sing more and more, improve their skills.

• What are the benefits that a park can bring to a city?

– Well, I believe parks are beneficial to a city in various ways. One of them is that they're just open spaces where people can do some exercise.

– This is really important because city dwellers normally lack places to do physical activity, which results in a sedentary lifestyle for many people. So those living in an urban area can just go and work out, do sports in parks.
