

雅思口语 IELTS Speaking Part 1: The Sky

1. Do you like to watch the sky?

If it's a nice day, I do, yeah, because the sky can be quite pretty when it wants to be. But unfortunately most of the time there's not much to look at, you know, normally it's just a blanket of grey!

a blanket of grey = 一片灰色(blanket is a metaphor 比喻 – the sky is like a grey blanket 毯子)

2. What's the sky like at night in your hometown?

It's nothing spectacular – I can tell you that! I mean, you're lucky to even see one star! So um, yeah, there's pretty much nothing to look at, apart from the moon.

there's pretty much nothing to look at – 差不多没什么可看的

3. Have you ever taken a course about stars?

No I haven't, it's never crossed my mind. And I think it would be a bit pointless, seeing as I can't even see the stars most nights!

it's never crossed my mind- 我从来都没有想过

pointless - 无意义的

4. Is it important to study stars?

Well, I wouldn't say it's important for everyone to study stars, but I think it's pretty important that at least some scientists study them, like the Sun for example, to get a better understand of how they work, because after all, we rely on the Sun to survive.

So it makes sense to understand it as much as possible.

5. What's your favourite star?

I honestly don't have a favourite. I mean, they all look pretty much the same to me.
Some might shine a bit brighter than others, but that's about it!

they all look pretty much the same – 看起来都差不多一样的
